You see every piece that I try to hide that I thought I could get by with Thought You wouldn't notice

I hear You calling me and You see through my pride
You know just where to find me
Kindness overwhelming

You don't miss a thing
But You love me still

When shame rushes in that consumes my mind

You always keep loving

You don't miss a thing, but You love me still
You don't miss a thing, but You love me still
